

Discover nature

New experiences

“Go out into the wild,
meet new people and
be prepared for new adventures.”

BdP
Bund der Pfadfinderinnen
und Pfadfinder

Bund der Pfadfinderinnen
und Pfadfinder e.V. (BdP)
Kesselhaken 23
34376 Immenhausen

Phone:05673 995840
E-Mail:info@pfadfinden.de Web:www.pfadfinden.de

facebook.com/pfadfinden
twitter.com/pfadfinden

201004 (09.15)

The Adventure of Guiding and Scouting

Small adventures every week

In our group meetings, we get together with people of our own age. Even though we wear a dark-blue shirt and a blue and yellow scarf, we are a pretty colourful bunch: In Germany, there are more than 250 local groups, and one of them is sure to be near you. In the holidays, we go hiking: The Adventure of Scouting starts at your doorstep and leads you out into the world. To roaring camp-fires, noisy singalongs and new friendships.

Pack your back-pack, buy a ticket and let's go!

Guides and scouts are always on the go: on weekends, during the holidays, in their region, in Germany or abroad. We want to get out – out of our everyday lives, out into nature. That is why we go on trips or camping, usually with a motto. Whether we're hiking, canoeing or cycling: Together, we explore new places and meet new people, countries and cultures.

Scouting for everyone

Cubs. The youngest group in the German Association of Guides and Scouts. Our identification: yellow scarf, black wolf's head. Live in a pack. Love chocolate spread (also known as "cub's delight").

Guides and Scouts. Young and wild. 11 to 15 years old. Identification: the blue and yellow scarf and the Clily (leaf of clover + lily). Find team spirit in their patrols. Love to travel to foreign countries for weeks in the summer.

Rangers and Rovers. The big ones. 16 to 25 years old. Identification: The blue and red R/R-sign on their scarfs. Their groups make great teams. They love singalongs that go on till the early morning.

The Tribe. All packs, patrols and groups form one local group, the tribe.

By your front door and all over the world

The German Association of Guides and Scouts (BdP) is Germany's largest interdenominational Scouting association. We work on a volunteer basis and are funded by membership fees, donations and public subsidies.

There are BdP groups in more than 250 locations throughout Germany, connecting us with the world's largest youth movement of 50 million young people in almost all countries of the world.

Join in

Come and visit a group meeting – we are looking forward to welcoming you!

On www.pfadfinden.de, you can find the nearest tribe by using the search for local groups („Ortsgruppen“).